

GARMENT STRIKERS SNUB CONTRACTORS

American Association Seems to Have Little Influence for Settlement.

TIETUP TO BE PROLONGED

Pickets Parade 'for Moral Effect' as Manufacturers Use
No Strikebreakers.

Early settlement of the cloakmakers' strike is virtually impossible, it was indicated by developments yesterday. Neither the International Ladies Garment Workers Union nor the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers Protective Association, the two chief factions in the controversy, took kindly to settlement suggestions of the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers Association.

The American association, according to the union and the Protective association, has comparatively little influence in the garment industry. It is made up of contractors to whom work is farmed out by the larger manufacturers, most of whom belong to the Protective association. The apparent failure of the American association's move for a settlement with the union, it was said last night, may prolong the strike for several weeks.

Benjamin Schlesinger, president of the union, in explaining his attitude toward the American association's suggestions said:

"The union will welcome all efforts to bring about a resumption of work on the terms of the existing agreement between the employers and workers, no matter from what source such efforts emanate, but it deems it its duty to correct certain assertions of the association with respect to its character and its position in the industry. The American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers Association is not an organization of manufacturers nor does it represent an independent element in the industry."

The association, Mr. Schlesinger said, is in effect made up of employees of the manufacturers. He said that any adjustment with contractors who work for the Protective association can only come as part of a settlement with their direct employers.

"The impression sought to be created by the American association that it is an independent factor in the conflict and in a position to deal disinterestedly with both sides," said Schlesinger, "is unwarranted, confusing and misleading."

A. E. Lefcourt, spokesman for the Protective association, agreed with most of what Mr. Schlesinger said about the relative importance of the American association. It was the first time Lefcourt and Schlesinger have agreed on anything.

Nevertheless, Charles Sussman, spokesman for the American association, said he still had hopes of getting some sort of settlement. He asserted that a committee of 150 is investigating conditions in the industry and hopes soon to find a common ground on which all sides can meet. The seriousness of the strike, according to Mr. Sussman, has been over-emphasized by both employers and workers. The black season, he said, probably would have laid off from 10,000 to 20,000 workers even if a strike had not been called. The garment industry will not suffer greatly, in his opinion, if a settlement is made any time in the next six weeks.

Several hundred pickets held a parade through the cloak and suit district. They carried banners expressing their opposition to piece work and their belief in the inviolability of contracts. Other parades will be held to-day. Union leaders said the pickets were used more for "moral effect" than anything else, as the employers were not trying to use many strikebreakers.

Several hundred additional requests for settlements were reported at the Hotel Continental headquarters of the union's settlement committee. Before a settlement is complete, however, it must be passed by Mr. Schlesinger, and he has approved only a few applications.

Mr. Lefcourt issued a statement calling on Mr. Schlesinger to "explain his ruthless tactics in scrapping the contract with 900 independent manufacturers against whom he had no grievance."

SMUGGLER ASSESSED $6,500.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—M. L. Levison, a jewelry broker of Cleveland, was fined $1,500 and costs and forfeited diamonds and pearls valued at $6,000 in Judge George A. Carpenter's court to-day on a charge of smuggling the stones into the United States from Poland.

ORIENTAL RUGS

No floor covering of to-day so enhances the decorative effect of a room as the hand-woven product of the East—no other still follows the same method of manufacture employed over several centuries, giving to each rug the interest of individuality as against the unvarying monotony of the machine.

The assortment is not limited to only the finer qualities, but embraces all such more reasonable weaves as we can conscientiously recommend.
